Cowgirl wins $100 per 1/10 second at Fort Worth's Pro Rodeo Tournament

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, Jan. 24, 2022 — Who wouldn't want to earn $100 for every one-tenth of a second they worked? That's exactly what Erin Johnson of Fowler, Colo., did to win Monday night's round of breakaway roping at the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeos' (FWSSR) Pro Rodeo Tournament.

First the ranch-raised cowgirl roped her calf in a blistering 1.9 seconds. When only three ropers made a legal catch, the payout for first place in the round went from $1,760 to $1,907. That gave the mom of three a little more than $100 for each one-tenth of a second.

Johnson won breakaway roping the $10,000 Texas Champions Challenge here on January 20. That money doesn't count toward the world championship standings, but she doesn't need her accounting degree from Colorado State University to calculate its impact. The seven-time Colorado Pro Rodeo Association breakaway champion has qualified for the first two National Finals Breakaway Ropings, finishing 15th in 2020 and 5th in 2021. She will return to Dickies Arena for the semifinals February 3-4.

Team ropers Brady Tryan of Huntley, Montana, and Rance Doyal of Hartshorne, Oklahoma, had never roped together until they rode into the roping box in Dickies Arena last night. They took second place in that round with a respectable time of 5.4 seconds. Tonight, they flipped that time to win the round with 4.5. The first two runs they made together were enough to advance the new duo to the semifinals. Their next two attempts could earn them the championship here on February 5.

Cole Reiner of Buffalo, Wyoming, was the first bareback rider at this year's FWSSR Pro Rodeo Tournament to break into the 90s. He scored 90 points on Championship Pro Rodeo's horse Hooley Rocks to win the round. That, combined with a tie for second place Sunday afternoon, means he will also be back for the semifinals.

A new set of contestants, eight per event, compete Tuesday and Wednesday for their shot at the semifinals. Fifty-six of the top rodeo athletes in North America compete in each of eight events for more than $1.1 million dollars prize money.

A total of seven groups of eight athletes compete in consecutive rodeo performances in each event in the tournament. The top two money winners from each group qualify for one of two semifinal rounds.

The third-highest money winner in each set qualifies for the wild card round. The other four competitors go into a non-qualifiers pool and the highest remaining money winner in each event also gets to move to the wild card round.

The top two money winners of that second-chance wild card competition also move on to the semifinals. Then, the top four from each semifinal advance to the finals on Saturday, February 5 when the champions will be crowned.

The Stock Show Goes Pink on Tuesday with 50% of the stock show and rodeo ticket sales going to The Careity Foundation, a local charity that offers free mammograms and direct services for cancer patients.
