CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF

Karen Ross, Secretary

January 4, 2022

The 2022 California Fair Season is upon us and there is no better time to reflect and appreciate what California fairgrounds have to offer to their communities. Our fairgrounds have been serving in so many different capacities throughout the pandemic, but we are ready for something more!

Each fair gives much to its community and in return, communities are the fairs' biggest supporters. This past year was no exception to the rule! The amount of support received in 2021 by the fair industry was a true representation of the impact our fairs have on their communities. This support and enthusiasm was especially significant as the fairs worked hard to make a comeback after a difficult year in 2020.

My hope is that in 2022 California fairs will have the opportunity to display their creativity and talents to the fullest. For many exhibitors and patrons, the annual fair is the one event of the year that they look forward to most. For fair staff and others, it's the event they have been preparing for over the past year and are eager to see come to fruition. Also very importantly, it is one of the very few events that allows many diverse groups to gather to celebrate culture, traditions, creations, and achievements.

The importance of California's agriculture is showcased in a variety of ways during the annual fairs. One of the most prominent ways is through exhibits. Agricultural exhibits not only entertain the public but also share information about an industry that is a vital part of the state but may be unfamiliar to them. Exhibits provide a sense of diversity while reminding fairgoers of the connections they share with others in the community. That is what makes our fairs' community so special!

I am excited for this fair season and proud to be a part of this effort. I want to thank you again for all your efforts and wish you the best!

Yours truly,

Karen Ross
Secretary

GENERAL INFORMATION

This marks the 31st year that The Gem and Mineral Department will be sponsored by the Big Fresno Fair. This department is intended to display the works associated with the Gem and Mineral hobby and includes exhibits from prospectors, lapidaries, mineral collectors, rock hounds, fossil collectors, metal smiths and jewelers.

The Gem & Mineral Department's goal is to create an exhibit reflecting the talent and artistry of the state. Competition builds quality, improving exhibitors' skills and igniting his or her personal satisfaction, while recognizing the Club's endless support.

A successful Gem & Mineral exhibit will depend on exhibitors' cooperation, assistance, and willingness to share knowledge and talents with over a half million fair visitors.

Locked cases will be provided for exhibits. On-going demonstrations will occur daily throughout the fair.

Please share this information with your clubs and friends to encourage them to join you in exhibiting. For further information and additional entry forms, please contact the Exhibit Office at (559) 453-6890

JUDGES' GUIDELINES

Judging Panel Qualified members of The California Federation of Mineralogical Societies and/or people from colleges and professional schools are chosen to be on the judging panel.

Labeling Labels will be judged on correctness of identification, spelling, and legibility. Accuracy and spelling of mineral, species and locality will also be factors. Neatness, size of label, etc. will be considered under showmanship. Labeling should be aimed at the general public. Pink Tourmaline is as acceptable as Tourmaline or Rubellite. All other things being equal, the labels with the most complete locality shall receive a higher score for labeling. This applies for both lapidary minerals and fossils. See other label requirements under general rules.

Showmanship Shall refer to the ability of the exhibitor to use material exhibited, background, lighting, arrangements, neatness, and labeling to create an attractive and interesting display.

Quality of Material Quality of material refers to the following properties: Color, crystal arrangement, color pattern, texture and brilliance, freedom from flaws, cracks and foreign material.

Rarity Rarity refers to the rarity of occurrence of the mineral, of mineral association or crystal form or habit.

Orientation The proper position and angular presentation of the specimen on its mount so that the central point of interest may be observed without further movement of the mount.

Workmanship This refers to the shaping, polishing, symmetry and general precision of the exhibited material. The ability to work in a wider variety and hardness of material will receive a relatively higher score.

Variety of Work Judging will be based on the variety of work exhibited. Cabochon, flats, faceted stones, transparencies, spheres, composite carvings and novelties shall be considered as different varieties. Variety of work in jewelry and metalwork shall be based on variety of techniques and surface finishes.

Originality of Design Use of new designs as well as the ability to use old ideas for unique design.

Variety of Material Life formative units, locations worldwide, replacing material. Use of diverse kinds of material, colors, differing ranges, hardness.

Reference List A list of references is required to obtain the scientific name for each specimen. This list may cite publications, institutions or individuals used as the authority for this identification.

Variety of Exceptional or Unusual Forms of Association This includes physical features, minerals present, etc.

Overall In every class all other things being equal, the exhibit, which in the opinion of the judges, carries the most interest to the general public, shall receive the higher score.
