HISTORY AND PURPOSE

To strengthen lines of communication and to clear up accusations made, Sullivan started by giving a brief history of events. Sullivan said the Retail Trade Commission started a sidewalk sale several years ago and called the event Fiesta Days. The Retail Trade Commission was then approached by a Fair and Rodeo member to promote the Fair and Rodeo. At that point Western Days was developed, expanded and set for late July.

Much confusion was noted as to when the rodeo and Fair were being held; and Manager Jossy set up a meeting with the Retail Trade Commission. At that point it was jointly agreed to advertise events separately.

END RESULT

General discussion of the problems continued for a half hour. Plans were then made to improve communication and both groups indicated a willingness to attend meetings. Bob Friese said the Retail Trade Commission probably could cut back on some of the extra activities such as the art show.

ADJOURNMENT

The meeting was adjourned at 8:55 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
