YOLO COUNTY FARM BUREAU ENDORSES PROVENZA

Yolo County Farm Bureau is pleased to announce the endorsement of Yolo County Supervisor Jim Provenza for re-election to the 4th Supervisorial District. The District encompasses portions of the City of Davis and nearby unincorporated areas including El Macero and Willowbank.

“Jim works very hard and pays attention to every detail on matters that come before him. He takes the initiative to assist agriculture and his door is always open,” said Joe Martinez, President, Yolo County Farm Bureau. “We appreciate his willingness to listen to us and seriously consider our perspective on matters that impact Yolo County agriculture. Never doctrinaire, he knows and appreciates that we are the on-the-ground experts.”

Supervisor Provenza helped enact one of the strongest agricultural land protection ordinances in the state and helped obtain millions of dollars in outside funding for agriculture and water projects in Yolo County, among many other accomplishments.

“In order to fight climate change and assure that we have food security, it is essential to protect agricultural land and help farmers thrive. We must promote agricultural economic development and work to limit unfair government mandates. Together we can address water issues, urban growth, and other threats to our agricultural economy. Farmers are our future and I’m deeply grateful for this endorsement,” said Provenza.

The election will be held in conjunction with the March 3 primary. The deadline to register to vote is February 18, 2020. For additional information, contact Yolo County Elections at yoloelections.org or 530-666-8133.
